

Josh Spencer

A proven grant strategist, researcher, and writer.

Josh knows how important grants are to nonprofit organizations and their fundraising strategies, thanks to more than seven years of experience in nonprofit and local government management. As a result, he is 100 percent committed to developing a grants strategy with a high probability of success.

Josh provides guidance and strategic direction to all elements of the grant writing process, including development of goals and objectives, evaluation plans, strategic partnerships, budget development and refinement, and case for support development. He also assists with grant research and funding strategies that align with each clients' funding goals.

As the Vice President of Grants, Josh oversees all grant writing clients and manages a team of writers, as well as a grants researcher. Ensuring quality in all aspects of our work is Josh's number one priority. Josh's expertise ranges from private foundation funding to local, state, and federal grant sources.
